ALEX. H. STEPHENS'S APPEAL TO THE PRESIDENT-REPLY OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL WILLIAMS.

The letter of Alex. II. Stephens to the President, asking for the exercise of Executive clemency in behalf of the Ku-Klux prisoners, and the reply of the Attorney-General are as follows:

Mr. Stephens's Appeal. LIBERTY HALL, CRAWFORDSVILLE, GA.,

August 6. 1872. To His Excellency U. S. Grant, President of the United States, Washington, D. C. MY DEAR SIR :- Of my own accord I make an appeal to your Excellency for clemency and mercy in behalf of all those prisoners now suffering in penitentiaries under sentence of courts in several States of the Union for a violation of the enforcement acts of Congress, under prosecutions founded upon the last named act. Not a single one of these parties is known to me, nor am I acquainted in the slightest degree with the nature or character of the charges brought against them, nor with the facts upon which the conviction of a single one of them was founded. My appeal is simply for clemency and mercy. It is founded upon these considerations:

First. My impresison from what I have seen in the newspapers is that all these convictions rest upon prosecutions for offences committed before the passage of the Ku-Klux act. It is, I believe, well ganizations. I have all my life been for law and order. Without, therefore, saying anything about outrages of this sort, either he was kept for a day or two, and no one in extenuation or condemnation, before to this city and lodged in jail without a suppression by the Federal authorities, I hearing. I believe that no one has any serious apprehensions of any further disturbances of this sort. Indeed, as said before, none, as I believe, have occurred since the passage of the act for their suppression by Federal authority. Third. When the object of punishment upon the individual and upon society is accomplished, lenity should be the rule with all governments. Fourth. Many of these parties, I understand, are infirm, a few of them old, several of them have families dependent upon them, all of them have suffered severely. For these reasons I ask you, by the authority veste l in you, to grant them, one and ali, a general pardon. I will present you with no view founded upon the constitutionality of the act under which they are suffering, or even of its doubtful British seas, and less than a tenth of being Presidency, I must do the justice to say constitutionality, but appeal to you to do, equal to the French Empire proper, and that he originated the only statesmanlike as Mr. Jefferson did with those who were PET-BAG RULE-MILLIONS OF imprisoned under the alien act of 1798, hands of the Executive.

Georgia SIR-I have received your letter of the 6th ultimo, addressed to the President and by him referred to me, in which you ask that a pardon may be granted to all of those prisoners now suffering in penitentiaries under sentence of courts in several of Congress generally known as the Ku-Klux act, or for violation of the enforcement acts of Congress under prosecutions founded upon the last named act. You represent that you are not acquainted in character of the charges brought against them, nor with the facts upon which the conviction of a single one of them was founded. Your application seems to be based chiefly upon an impression that all the convictions rest upon prosecutions for offences committed before the passage of additional considerations that some of the parties are old and infirm, and have sufferng families, together with an opinion that not in the Iting, had received no pay for a the purposes of the government have been accomplished and that no one has any serious apprehensions of any further disturbances. [From the Springfield Republican.] Mr. Ames comes in with his promised denial, of course. He " gave " no stock to members of Congress to induce favorable egislation for the Pacific Railroad. But will he go on the stand, and, under oath, answer a few questions? Did he not offer to various members shares in his enterprise, with a guaranty that they should pay a generous profit? And did he not urge the taking of them again and again upon his associates? Did not some take them, and did not those who did have them realize handsome gains without running any risks in return? And was not the distinct understanding, nay, the positive assurance given that they should do so? Mr. Ames' denial is at least a subterfuge. It has all the moral character of a lie. His own undenied letters show this plain enough, and if Henry Wilson, Jas. G. Of the manner by which said last actwas passed, I care not to speak. It is of the act itself that I speak. Who voted for this amendment act it is impossible to ascertain, as the record shows that all attempts to obtain the yeas and nays on its final passage failed. We know this, that every interest of the people that was guarded in the first, was sacrificed in the second. We know that the security of the Government was subordinated to a mortgage, amounting to over sixty million dollars, that the reservation of any part of the bonds until the road shall be completed was reply to liquidate the bonds, and the provision for applying the earnings of the road on Government transportation was also altered so as to require but one-half to be so applied, and all restriction as to amount of stock that any one man could hold was removed. The land grant was doubled, giving the different Pacific roads a territory, according to the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, " within one-fourth of twice the area of England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Guernsey, Jernothing that the ingenuity of man could invent for their benefit was withheld. * * * I will simply say that I state what is a notorious fact, that the Vice-President has claimed that he used the money in a confinential way in Washington. But there is one significant fact which I may be pardoned for adverting to, and it is this: that in this act of 1864, virtually voting away six y million dollars of the people's money, the opponents of it in vain demanded the year and nays upon the final vote on agreeing to the report of the conference committee of the two Houses, and by which vote the bill was finally passed.

MR. HASSAUREK'S SPEECH.

Extracts from the Address at Avondale.

HORACE GREELEY'S STATESMAN-SHIP-NEED OF RECONCIL-LATION FOR THE SOUTH-MORAL COURAGE OF THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

The following are extracts from the speech of Hon. Frederick Hassaurek, at Avondale, Ohio, on Wednesday evening of last week: AN EXAMPLE FROM HISTORY.

Let me refer you to an example in modern German history. In 1866, the Prussian and the Bavarian, the Prussian and the Saxon, the Prussian and the Hanoverian, were arrayed in deadly conflict .-Children of the eame race, they met each other in deadly strife, and shed each other's blood. The Prussian conquered, and the sting of defeat rankled deep in the breasts of the conquered. Curses, not loud but deep, were heard by the French agents all over Southern Germany, and many a Bavarian, many a Saxon, many a Hessian swore that he would rather be French than Prussian. Yet when the note of war was sounded from over the Rhine, and the columns of the invader threatened the soil of fatherland, where was the malignant spirit ry L. Dawes, and a dozen other members of 1868? It was forgotten, and side by side the Prussian and the Bavaian, the Prussian and the Saxon stormed the heights of Woerth and Weisenburg, and died in each other's arms for the common fatherland. [Cheers.] Cannot such things be with us? [Applause.] From 1861 to 1865 a cruel war was waged between the two sections of our common country. It was a war between citizens, a terrible, fratricidal war. Blood flowed in streams, and the destroying angel was at work. The war ended. It ended seven years ago. The institution that had caused the war has passed away. The tenets upon which it was based have been abandoned. Those who commenced the war have paid for it dearly. There were sacrifices on both sides. There were brave men on both sides. The bones of both our dead bleach together under many a sod. Why should the living carry the old quarrel beyond the graves in which both our heroes are moldering? [Applause.] pealed; also 5 per cent. net earnings to ap- | Life is short, and it has other objects to struggle for than the heart-burnings and resentments of the past. [Renewed applause.] Why can we not after the conflict of war enter into a bloodless and blissful rivalry of peace and vie with each other which of us; the North or South, will make the grandest strides on our new road to the peaceful conquests of modern progress and civilization. [Cheers.] Horace Greeley represents this sentiment. [Prolonged cheers. The party of Gen. Grant does not. It was Horace Greeley to whom, sey, the Isle of Man, and the Islands of the although he was not my choice for the whole of our reconstruction troubles: "Universal amnesty and universal suffrage." [Applause.] If I respect Horace Greeley for anything, it is for the courage and pluck he displayed he considered right, although they were the Association, in the Fall of 1872: against the current of public opinion or not in accordance with the intolerant fancy or prejudice of the hour. [Cheers.] It takes a great deal of pluck and courage to do so.

There is a physical courage which may be displayed by a commander on the field of battle, who shrinks not at the critical hour from the awful responsibility he must assume, without time for reflection, and with defeat and disgrace as the inevitable result of a mistake. But there is a moral courage which may be manifested by the statesman who yields not to the popular clamor and prejudice of the hour, and, undisturbed by misrepresentation and abuse, sacrifices the prospects of his own personal advancement to the conviction that he can render an important service to his country. Applause. Give me the one for the field: give me the other for the Cabinet. The one may lead our armies to victory, but the other will heal the wounds of the war and give us again a truly united, a reconciled, a prosperous and happy country .-[Prolonged applause and cheers.]

A SINGULAR CASE.

A MAN A MURDERER FOR PERMITTING

HIMSELF TO BE SHOT. There is a charge of murder pending in the London courts against a man for permitting himself to be shot. The circumstances of the case are extraordinary in all respects. Two young German gentlemen, of respectable family, visited London, and in four days managed to expend the sum of $2,000 in the pursuit of pleasure. At the end of that time, having exhausted their money, they came to the conclusion that there was nothing left to them worth living for, and agreed to die together. A few lines of farewell were written to some young girls who had assisted them in their revelries, after which they locked their door | For largest crop of Ground Peas upon one and stripped themselves for death. One of the young men, named Paul May, stood up, and the other shot him through the oreast. As May fell to the floor, his companion finished his work by shooting himself through the heart. It so happened that May was not mortally wounded, but is in a fair way of recovery, and when he is convalescent he is to be taken before the authorities to stand his trial for willfully murdering the companion who shot him, in accordance with the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury which investigated his case, as in England, where two persons mutually agree to committ suicide to- for Hay. gether, and only one dies, the survivor is held guilty of the murder of the one who trial of this kind occurred in the Old Bailey in 1838, when Benjamin Allison was indicted for the willful murder of Emma Cripps, a woman with whom he had been living. The grain crop of the Pacific Slope is reported as being unprecedented in the annals of that land of plentiful harvests.
